

Local CWA Submit List Of Projects to New York

Members of Recommended Local CWA in New York Today With List of Projects Totaling $505,000 in Order to Hasten Work of Placing Idle Men at Work in Kingston—To Investigate Standing of Local Men.

Henry Forst, Alva S. Staples and Nicholas Hogeboom, members of the recommended civil works administration of Kingston, although they have not received notice as yet of their appointment, in order to hasten the job of placing the unemployed men of Kingston at work went to New York city this morning with a list of projects totaling $505,000 to submit to the state Civil Works Administration for approval.

Telephone communication with the New York office of the CWA on Monday disclosed the fact that a field representative of the state administration would be in Kingston today to investigate the standing and reputation of the three men recommended for this committee. It was stated that the committee would be appointed as soon as a favorable report of the field representative reached New York city.

Henry Forst, who is to serve as chairman, if appointed, is a member of the Forst Packing Company, and has been a member of the board of public works for several years, serving as chairman of the sewer committee of that board.

Mr. Staples is president of the Staples Brick Company and is one of Kingston's leading business men.

Mr. Hogeboom is a retired state contractor of this city. He stated yesterday that he was prepared to devote his entire time to the work of the civil works administration.

All three members of the local CWA will serve without pay. The local CWA will be representatives of the federal government and men engaged on civil works projects in this city will be federal employees.

The board of education has about completed a survey of Kingston schools and a recommended project covering all repairs to schools will be sent to New York for approval in a day or so.

Other projects will also be presented for approval.

Mayor-elect Harry B. Walker's administration has been working getting out plans, specifications and estimates of labor and materials on the submitted projects ever since Mayor Carey notified Mr. Walker that he would ask him to nominate his civil works committee.

The names of the three members were submitted to the state administration last week for approval, but as yet no word has been received here that the recommended committee had been appointed.

The three men, although not appointed to serve as yet, decided Monday that in order to facilitate progress and place idle men at work as quickly as possible that the wisest plan would be to go direct to the New York office with a list of proposed projects which they did this morning.

Play Tug-of-War With American Dollar

Two Opposing Schools of Thought Hold Rival Mass Meetings—One Boos Name of Al Smith—Detroit's Militant Priest a Speaker.

New York, Nov. 28 (AP)—Two schools of monetary thought played oratorical tug-of-war with the American dollar at rival mass meetings last night.

On one side was the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, "radio priest" of Royal Oak, Mich., defending the Hippodrome the Roosevelt money policies. On the other were the Crusaders, urging "sound" money and decrying inflation.

Coincident with the two meetings a manifesto signed by 37 Columbia University professors was made public. It urged an "expedient" return to the gold standard by the United States.

Still another element was added to the difference of opinion concerning the administration's money policies by a letter to Senator Borah of Idaho in which James W. Warburg, banker, suggested a "modernized" international gold standard.

The mass meeting at the Hippodrome attracted a crowd which police estimated at 20,000, only 6,500 of whom were able to obtain entry.

A force of 176 policemen had difficulty in keeping traffic lanes open, and several persons were slightly hurt in the crush.

Father Coughlin, pointing his oratory at Wall Street, the "Tory Press," Alfred E. Smith, J. P. Morgan and all critics of the Roosevelt money policies, referred during his address (which was extemporaneous) to the "sound money" meeting at Carnegie Hall, saying:

"There are only about 1,000 persons there, and 500 of them are my friends. That meeting was intended to ruin Roosevelt and build up Ogden Mills (Ogden Mills, former secretary of the Treasury) for president in 1934."

During the course of Father Coughlin's address the name of Al Smith, long the political princeling of New York city voters, was booed.

Recife, Brazil, Nov. 28 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, a dispatch from Porto Praia, Cape Verde Islands, said today, expects to take off on his flight to South America at 3:45 a. m., G. M. T., tomorrow.

All northern Brazil was excited over the possibility of the colonel's flight.

From Natal came the information that aeroplane, the French International Air Lines, which operates in South America, had been asked to prepare a landing place and arrange for control of spectators.

Fungus Lives 11 Miles High, Flight Of Settle Reveals

Spores of Seven Tiny Plants Live Where Human Beings Would Perish—Carried Inside and Outside Cotton Balls on Ballon's Trip to Stratosphere.

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—First scientific results of Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. Settle's stratosphere flight were made public today, showing that life in the form of fungus spores or moulds can survive 11 miles above earth where humans would die if unprotected.

Spores of seven kinds of fungi, or tiny plants, which Commander Settle carried to the stratosphere on the outside of his balloon gondola, lived through temperatures far below zero, rarified air, low atmospheric pressure and increased ultra-violet light to which they were subjected on the trip, reported F. C. Meier, plant pathologist of the department of agriculture.

The spores germinated readily after their return.

It was the first time in the history of science that living spores had been sent to such a height above the earth and brought back for scientific analysis. They were carried inside and outside cotton balls tied to the gondola of the balloon.

The spores were those of common fungi that float about everywhere near the earth's surface. Meier sought to learn how high in the air they might travel and live. The tests show, he said, that these spores, too small to be seen without a microscope, are among the hardiest forms of life in existence.

Among the spores sent aloft were those of common bread mold, known to every housewife; the red mould that causes "bloody bread" by germinating in blood-like spots after bread is baked, and strawberry rot, which causes the "whiskers" sometimes seen on berries at marketing time. All the fungi used in the experiment had previously been collected by Meier on airplane flights.

Though the spores survived the stratosphere flight, the conditions they underwent may have caused changes not now apparent but which will show up as the fungi develop, Meier explained. Tests that will cover many months are being made to learn whether development of the fungi was stimulated, their vigor altered, or their hereditary qualities changed.

Results of these tests are expected to add considerably to useful knowledge concerning these fungi and related forms by determining how they are affected by conditions in the upper atmosphere, Meier said.

Tests to see if the spores survived the flight were begun immediately after Commander Settle's return, thanks to his interest and care in personally returning them to the laboratory. Success of the experiment is largely due to his conscientious assistance.

Mad Maryland Mob Faces State Militia After Lynch Arrests

Tear Gas Bombs of Temporary Value Only in Dispersing Crowd, Which Grew Out of Police Scheme of Four Members of October Hanging Party.

Salisbury, Md., Nov. 28 (AP)—Tear gas bombs were hurled by state militia today when a crowd of 400 men, apparently incensed at the arrest of four members of the Princess Anne lynch mob advanced on the state armoury here.

The crowd gave way temporarily, but the crowd again advanced and the soldiers who arrived last night from Baltimore were driven back into the armoury.

A general fire alarm was sounded and the 300 members of the militia, ordered by Governor Albert C. Ritchie to arrest nine men said to have been members of the mob that lynched George Armwood on the night of October 18.

The screaming crowd appeared to be unimpaired by the tear gas, coming closer all the while. A few minutes later another barrage of tear gas was loosed.

Brig. General Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland, stepped out in the street and said: "Get back. We don't want to hurt anybody."

Whereupon there was a yell from the crowd: "What right have you to come down here and run our country?" one man shouted.

Another yell came out: "Oh, Reckord's all right. He's a regular fellow. He's just obeying orders."

The crowd which gathered early today after the news spread that the militia had come to Salisbury and was arresting the alleged lynchers, was augmented by long motor caravans converging on Salisbury from Maryland, Delaware and Virginia.

The Associated Press correspondent, sending messages on the printed wire, said he could see much of the action from where he was sitting.

In Annapolis, David C. Winebrenner, III, secretary of state, was informed of the developments in Salisbury and said he would leave at once to take the news to Governor Ritchie, who is in ill health.

Bricks were hurled at the army by the crowd outside and this was followed by shots, although it was not immediately apparent who had fired them; the soldiers or the mob attacking.

The firemen sent streams of water into the tear gas, apparently in an effort to deaden the effects of the fumes and were cheered.

General Reckord appeared on the outside of the armoury and ordered all persons standing on porches of private homes in the vicinity of the armoury to evacuate.

Troops Recalled.

Salisbury, Md., Nov. 28 (AP)—State troops sent here by Governor Albert C. Ritchie to arrest the alleged Princess Anne lynchers left Salisbury early this afternoon, apparently headed for Baltimore.

It could not be ascertained if they had the four men they arrested early today with them.

Oakland, Calif., Nov. 28 (AP)—The probability of a settlement out of court of the $250,000 breach of promise suit brought against Max Baer, handsome heavyweight fighter, by Miss Olive Beck was announced by attorneys here today. Crozier C. Culp, counsel for the Livermore, Calif., waitress who claims Baer broke his promise to marry her, said terms of a settlement have "practically been reached."

Customs receipts for the month, $22,699,963.39. Receipts for the fiscal year to date (since July 1) $122,162,279.66; expenditures, $1,849,670,196.41 (including relief), $647,321.51 for emergency relief; excess of expenditures, $727,507,906.75.

Death of Defendant's Father Delays Richert Trial in County Court

Death of the defendant's father delayed the John Richert case in county court Monday afternoon and counsel in the case agreed to postpone the trial until next Tuesday at 10 o'clock. The jury has been selected and was present Monday afternoon when court convened.

District Attorney Cleon B. Murray announced that the missing witness who was sought last week and who caused a postponement of the trial had been located and was now being held as a material witness under bond.

He stated that The People were ready to proceed but on Sunday defendant's father had died suddenly and under the circumstances he would ask that the case be again postponed to give the defendant an opportunity to take care of his personal affairs. Under the circumstances he said it would be unjust to ask that the trial be continued. Mr. Murray suggested that if convenient to the court and jury that the case be simply postponed and the jury selected brought back some time next week and the trial completed since the county had been put to the cost of bringing a jury into court.

On account of the Thanksgiving holiday, the fact that the Supreme court calendar will be called Friday afternoon and counsel will be required to attend it over until next week, Judge Traver is scheduled to sit as surrogate on Monday so the earliest date was Tuesday morning and the jury was excused until then.

Daniel Hoffman, who appears for defendant, announced that he would be ready at that time.

In announcing the postponement Mr. Murray stated that he was in an embarrassing position. A very material witness has been missing and through the aid of the sheriff and troopers this witness has been found but it was necessary to hold the witness pending the taking of testimony and he did not desire to hold the witness longer than necessary. So far as the prosecution was concerned he said in all probabilities The People would swear only two witnesses and the case could be concluded in about a day unless defense had a number of witnesses.

Supreme court will be in session next week and the county court will probably convene in the supervisor's rooms.

Richert is charged with abuse of a female child over 10 and under 16 years of age.

Sentences Imposed.

After a short recess District Attorney Murray disposed of several other criminal matters.

Jesse Trowbridge entered a plea of guilty to second degree assault and was sentenced to 7 months in the county jail. Jesse hails from The Valley.

Frank Alessi of Highland, charged with rape, was sentenced to Elmira Reformatory and Joseph Realmutto, also of Highland, charged with the same crime had his case put over to January 8 at 2 p. m. on a plea of guilty. The postponement of sentence was in order that his case might be further investigated. He was instructed to report to the probation officer.

The case of Peter Gill, charged with rape, was adjourned until Tuesday at 10 o'clock.

Since the present criminal session commenced 21 defendants have had their cases disposed of.

Central Hudson Gets Gas Heating Revision On Budget Plan Basis

Public Service Commission Approves Revising of Gross Rates, Also in Elimination of Fractional Rate—Would Not Grant Flat Rate Heating Agreement.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 28 (AP)—Revisions of the gas schedules of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation of Poughkeepsie providing for a budget plan applying to space heating consumers and revising of gross rates were approved today by the public service commission.

The commission failed to approve proposed provisions which would guarantee space heating customers that the total cost of service for the first 12 months would not exceed a specified amount.

The budget plan permits consumers to pay in monthly installments based on the estimated usage of gas for the heating period. Under this plan the customer may have the option of paying for gas in equal monthly amounts based on the application of the rate to the estimated use of gas for the period, at the end of which he is given credit for or pays for consumption which is less than or exceeds the estimated use.

The elimination of the fractions of a cent less than one mill in the gross rates makes the schedules simpler, the commission said, and more understandable to the public.

Commission Favors State Rum Company

Would Create Public Corporation With Sole Authority To Distribute Hard Liquor For Retail Consumption.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 28 (AP)—Abandonment of the license system of selling liquor and creation of a public corporation with sole authority to distribute hard liquor for retail consumption in New York state was recommended today by the state commission for the revision of tax laws as the best method of eradicating the bootlegger and outlawing saloons.

The license system was worked out by the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board as a temporary plan and will be effective until April 1, 1934, when a permanent plan will have been evolved by the legislature.

The commission estimates that in addition to its advantages from the standpoint of "social control," the state corporation plan would produce approximately $65,000,000 a year in revenue.

All liquor, except beer of less than 4 per cent alcohol content and "naturally fermented" wines, would be sold through this central agency. Package, "rooms" would be retailed by licensed private grocers, drug stores, and similar places designated by the "authority" or through a chain store system set up for this purpose, or both.

The commission also proposes to make liquor available "with or without" meals in designated hotels, clubs and restaurants licensed by the corporation. Under this plan, wine would be sold with food as freely as beer now is and the limit on beer "for virtually unrestricted sale" would be made 4 per cent instead of 3.2.

"The only way to get rid of bootleggers," said Senator Seabury C. Mastick, chairman of the commission, "is to make liquor available for those who demand it at a reasonable price and at the time, place and manner in which they are accustomed to use it."

The total warrants issued by the committee for rights of way was $130,537.52. Warrants issued and payable March 1, 1934, on consent of property owners based on a levy of $50,000 made on June 28, 1933, amount to $14,975. The amount of warrants issued by the committee and payable forthwith in cash for the year was $116,462.52, leaving a balance in favor of the committee of $10,659.98.

However the county treasurer's books show in addition to the amounts paid out directly by the committee for rights of way that on court orders there was paid out $28,129.38 making an overdraw on the rights of way fund of $17,479.40. Had it not been for the payment of this sum of $28,129.38 the committee would have closed the year with a balance of $10,659.98.

Warrants issued this year in payment of rights of way occurred this year but which are not due until March 1, 1934, amount to the sum of $11,675 as above stated.

The committee recommended that in addition to the levy made June 28, 1933, there be levied on the county the sum of $97,729.19 to be paid to the credit of the committee on rights of way. The committee on rights of way.

Nazi Reich Leader Is Removed Today

Berlin, Nov. 28 (AP)—Dr. Joachim Hosenfelder, leader of the Nazi German Christian movement, was retired from the Reich's Church ministry today, the latest development in Germany's religious controversy.

At the same time, Dr. Friedrich Werner, legal counselor for the Evangelical Reich's church cabinet, also was retired.

Then, in a further surprise move, indefinite postponement of the consecration of the Rev. Dr. Ludwig Mueller as Reichsbishop was announced. It had been set for December 2.

For more than a week, a faction headed by former Reichsbishop Friedrich Von Bodelschwingh had been demanding that Bishop Hosenfelder be removed.

Board of Trustees of Home for the Aged Elects Its Officers

An important meeting of the Board of Trustees for the Home for the Aged of Ulster County was held at the Home on Saturday, November 25, at 2 p. m., attended by the following: President John D. Schoonmaker, Walter P. Crane, Hon. G. D. B. Hasbrouck, John Hillebrand, George S. Howells, William M. Mills, D. N. Matthews, R. S. Kozie, F. B. Matthews and A. D. Rose.

The meeting was held for the purpose of electing officers and appointing committees to fill vacancies caused by the death of former members of the board.

The Hon. G. D. B. Hasbrouck was appointed vice president to succeed Adenial Hillebrand; George S. Howells, vice president to succeed George Burgevin; William M. Mills, treasurer to succeed Frank R. Powley; and F. B. Matthews, secretary to succeed Everett Fowler.

The following new trustees were elected, namely: Harold S. Brigham, Harry Rose, Grover C. Lasher, Dr. Julian I. Gifford, Alfred Schmidt, A. B. Schufeldt, Arthur S. Wicks and A. L. Tongue.

Virgil B. Van Wageningen was appointed on the Finance Committee to succeed George Burgevin. John Hillebrand and Walter P. Crane were appointed trust officers in care of securities to succeed George Burgevin and Frank R. Powley.

It is a sad commentary on the above to add that all of these appointments were made to succeed former trustees who have died.

In addition to the above elections and appointments routine business was acted upon.

The Board of Trustees feel that they are again well organized and are very glad to say for the Board that they found the Home splendidly administered by the efficient board of lady managers under the careful guidance of their president, Mrs. Grover C. Lasher.

The trustees are anxious that the public be kept well informed as to the affairs of the Home both financially and otherwise, and of course regret to add that the income of the Home has been reduced considerably due to the lower rates of interest and dividends obtainable upon stocks, bonds and saving bank balances in which their endowment funds are invested. However, very careful attention is being given to these investments and it is hoped that better times are ahead for the Home and they would like to ask all their kind friends who are interested in the Home to keep it in mind whenever the opportunity occurs for doing anything for its benefit.

Suspended Sentence For Postmaster Young

New York, Nov. 27.—(Special).—On the plea of his attorney, John Cashin of Kingston, and with the consent of Assistant United States Attorney Morris Kanfer, James H. Young, Allgerville postmaster, who pleaded guilty last week to misappropriating government funds, won a six months suspended sentence in federal court this morning from Judge John M. Woolsey. He was placed on probation for that period and will be required to report regularly to the probation officer.

Judge Woolsey had stated last week he intended to give the defendant a jail sentence as a warning to other rural postmasters "that government funds must not be tampered with."

Mr. Cashin told the court that great hardship had resulted from Young's arrest. His uncle had given up most of his life's savings to make good the nephew's shortage, he said. Young, himself, would never again be able to hold a public post. The attorney pointed out that no theft was intended by Young, the money was merely borrowed in the expectation of soon returning it. Meanwhile the shortage in his accounts was discovered.

The missing money, $610, was obtained chiefly through a series of fake money orders Young made out to himself.

Hudson Valley Apples Shipped to Europe

Thousands of barrels of apples grown in the Hudson river valley in New York state have been exported to England, Germany and other European countries within the last six weeks, according to Commissioner Charles H. Baldwin, of the Department of Agriculture and Markets. "There has been an unusual demand abroad for Hudson valley apples and it seems to be on the increase," said Commissioner Baldwin, "and this constitutes a bright spot in the marketing of New York state apples this year."

The commissioner pointed out that apples grown in New York state are the finest in flavor and superior in this respect to those grown in western states. As a result of packing and appearance many western apples, but the demand shown abroad for Hudson river valley apples this year is an indication that New York state apples are finding a better market.

The export apple and pear act which was passed by congress at the last session, which permits only the exporting of selected apples from the United States, has undoubtedly had a stimulating effect, according to reports to the department.

Before the enactment of this law by congress apples were "bootlegged" to foreign countries, thus escaping inspection before shipment. As a result, apples which were not of the best found their way to foreign markets and naturally a bad impression was created. Thus far this season only apples packed to meet the requirements of United States grade Number 1 have been exported from the Hudson valley.

To Extend Red Cross Membership Drive

D. N. Matthews, chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, announces that the membership campaign in this county will be extended beyond Thanksgiving, which was the date originally set for closing.
Many of the volunteer workers have reported that they will need more time to complete their canvases and accordingly Mr. Matthews has decided to extend the time beyond November 30, in order that everyone may be seen and given a chance to contribute.
A letter from national headquarters requests that the regular report on the campaign in Ulster county, with remittance covering the national organization's share of the roll call, be mailed to them on or before December 10. Supplementary reports and remittances may be mailed later if the roll call is not completed by December 10.

Convicts' Pet Dies.
Auburn, N. Y., Nov. 28 (AP).—
Squidge "the squirrel" is dead, and Auburn prison inmates mourned today. A frisky little, friendly little gray animal that ran the telephone wires, leaped to the cliff-like walls, clambered down into the prison yards and became the pet of hundreds of inmates of the century-old institution, often accompanied one of them—a lifer in for murder, second degree—into the prison itself, died this morning.

Praise And Censure From Entire Nation For California Chief

Governors, Church Leaders and Prominent People in General Have Showered—Criticism Moves Quickly to Chase And Quiet Lynching Charges.

San Jose, Calif., Nov. 28 (AP).—
Praise and censure for San Jose's mob vengeance on the kidnap-slayers of Brooke L. Hart were met here today by official efforts to close the case and wipe out scars of its furious climax.

Governors of other states, church leaders and other prominent persons in all parts of the nation were among those who joined in lauding or condemning the mob's action and the approval of it by Governor James Rolph, Jr., of California.

Disapproval was expressed by Governor Henry H. Blood of Utah,
Governor Henry Horner of Illinois and Governor Pollard of Virginia.
Governor W. H. Murray of Oklahoma declared the "citizens would not have taken the law into their own hands" if speedier prosecutions in the courts were assured.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York declared the lynchings were "more barbaric" than their victims.
Henry H. Hargrett, rector of the Church of Heavenly Rest, New York, sent congratulations to Governor Rolph "on the stand you have taken."

In view of Governor Rolph's declaration that he would immediately pardon any one convicted of the lynchings, officials frankly admitted the probability of prosecution was remote.

Several young men were reported to have publicly boasted that they took leading parts in dragging
Thomas H. Thurmond and John M.
Holmes, the accused kidnapers, from the county jail and hanging them to two elm trees in St. James Park.

These reports drew no official recognition. District Attorney Fred L. Thomas expressed regret at the lynchings but said: "I don't see what we can do about it."

Work on repairs to the jail and other buildings damaged by the mob was started and City Manager Claire Goodwin announced the two trees from which Thurmond and Holmes were hanged, will be uprooted and destroyed.

The trees, slashed and torn by scurrying seekers, were so badly damaged that gardeners expressed doubt if they would live.
"This fact and a desire to remove all possible reminders of the mob's action led to his decision," Goodwin said.

Hart's Father Sympathetic.
Alex J. Hart, merchant and father of the 22-year-old kidnap victim, whose body was placed in the family vault yesterday, was among those regretting the mob action.

"I am so overcome with my own grief," he said, "that I am unable to think of that other terrible thing my sympathy goes out to the families of those two men."

Governor Rolph reaffirmed his approval of the action Sunday night
"by the aroused people" of San Jose.
In a statement in San Francisco last night and then went to Sacramento where, for the second time, he cancelled a proposed trip to Boise, Idaho.

The governor said in a telegram to Governor Ross of Idaho, announcing his change of plans, that "conditions in California are very unsettled because of the lynchings and that he deemed it advisable not to make the trip."

Regarding the many messages of condemnation and praise for his action, the governor said that criticism was to be expected.
"Those criticizing me," he added,
"do not realize what would have happened had the National Guard moved in and had mowed down innocent citizens."

Italian Offers Taken Payment of $1,000,000

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP).—Italy has offered a token payment of $1-000,000 to the United States on the $2,132,995 installment it will owe on war debts December 15.

The offer was made through the Italian embassy to the state department and has been referred to President Roosevelt. Diplomatic officials refused to discuss the token offer until the President takes some action on it.

Undersecretary Phillips said negotiations on war debt payments also are proceeding with Finland, Latvia and Czechoslovakia.

MUSSOLINI IS FIRM ON LEAGUE AND ARMS

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 28 (AP).—
Premier-Mussolini of Italy was understood here, following the return of Joseph A. C. Avenol, secretary of the League of Nations, from Rome, to be convinced that disarmament
must succeed if the League of Nations would be saved.

League circles were given the impression that Mussolini was concerning disarmament to the exclusion of all other questions including the possibility of Italy resigning from the League. It was stated that Mussolini made no mention of this possibility in his conversations with Avenol.

To Break Power Stronghold.

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP).—The chairman of the Federal Power Commission, Frank R. McNinch, said in a statement today that it was the commission's purpose "to do all it can within the law" to break the "holding company stronghold" of power. "I am convinced," he said,
"that if the operating companies can be relieved of the superfluous burden of providing profits and dividends for the support of the holding company groups, the consumer public would reap a direct and substantial benefit through reduction in rates."

TALK IS CHEAP

The usual uninformed criticism is going on concerning the reasons for the seeming lack of action in presenting work relief projects designed to give employment to Kingston men through the Federal Civil Works Board. The facts of the matter are: Kingston at present has no civil works board, except the recommendations of Mayor Carey, which await approval in Washington before that board can function and present projects to the head of this district in New York city.

The first board, which was approved, consisted of those who headed the emergency work relief in Kingston, but in consideration of the change in administration at the first of the year, these men resigned their posts and refused to be appointed to the new federal civil works board. Mayor Carey then suggested another list of names, approved by Mayor-elect Walker, and this list awaits confirmation.

The proposed board in the meantime has selected a number of projects, and is studying others, so that when approval comes these plans will be sent to the district headquarters for action.

Kingston's unemployed will have to bear with the proposed board until that board is approved or rejected, for until that action is taken no plans may be recognized in New York city as coming from an official body in Kingston. Without question the officials will do their duty, without pressure from demagogues and self-constituted champions who so frantically attempt to pose as "saviors of the people" excite only contempt.

WHEN DOLLARS COME HOME

The most disquieting thing about the American dollar lately has been its "flight abroad", as its gold value fell. It was estimated last week that at least a couple of billions of cash had been transferred to other countries for storage or investment. It was feared that the country would be drained of capital. The bidding up of gold stopped for the time being, and concurrently the money fight stopped. People started buying stocks and commodities again, and their price levels rose. It may have been just a passing phase, or it may have meant a definite swing back to faith in American investments.

However that may be, a story appearing in American financial centers at the same time, and printed in some newspapers at the end of last week, is at least interesting. As given by a veteran financial editor who is known as careful and conservative, it ran as follows:

"The homeward trek of the American dollar will begin when or just before the R. F. C. price for gold reaches $141.84 an ounce. When it begins it will have company. Foreign capital, real alien money, is waiting to join the rush to American shores, the land of opportunity, for the return trip of inflation or prosperity or whatever you will call it. "There will be foreign buying of American stocks and bonds, American real estate, investment properties of every description. There will be such buying of American 'things' as seldom has been witnessed in this country."

"This is the picture of the objective of the Roosevelt-Warren gold-buying, money-manipulating campaign, as seen by eminent foreign authorities in confidential advice received by high financial circles. "The conception of a return flow of capital to the United States in enormous quantities is one of foreign origin. It is the reading of the flow of events as seen in financial capitals of the Old World, where American dollars are now piling up, awaiting the time when, in the transfer back home, they will command still more dollars—two for the former price of one. A 50-cent dollar would be in actual fact a stabilization point. The rush to buy dollars would commence, this effort.

It is argued, just before the stabilization point is reached. "This quotation, passed on for whatever it may be worth, is from the Cleveland News, a Republican newspaper long associated with the Hanna family."

TERRARIUMS

The title of this place may suggest a college yell, but it is really the counterpart of aquariums. To be in the realm of terrariums we should say to be on terra firma—every family that aspires to do the right thing should have a terrarium in the house for the winter, to match the rock garden outside for the summer. A landscape architect tells how to build it.

You take a clear glass bowl, a large candy jar, a battery jar or an aquarium, and get a glass lid for it. Then: "Fill the bottom and partly up the sides with wood moss, with the mossy side next to the glass. Cover the bottom with small stones and a few pieces of charcoal. Get woods soil, with decayed wood and some peat moss and sand, then plant the woody material and cover the top of the ground with more moss. Before the actual planting is done, add water to the ground and cover with the glass top." You can plant all sorts of dainty little growing things. This creation has the great merit of going months without care, which is more than you can say for a bowl of goldfish. We can see that terrariums are likely to crowd out aquariums this winter in a lot of homes.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BY
James W. Barton, M. D.

PANIC IS PROLONGED FEAR.

In referring a mental case to a specialist recently the physician asked the specialist for his diagnosis or opinion as to what was the type of mental ailment that was causing the trouble.

The specialist stated "I've got to the point where I don't call the ailment any particular name, I simply treat the patient for any symptoms I find."

In other words the tendency today is toward a study of the individual, what he does that is not just in line with what the average everyday sensible person does, and a study of the reasons or the situations which cause him to act differently from other people.

One of the developments of considerable importance is panic. Dr. Oskar Diethelm in Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry, says that in the study of fear and panic reactions he arrived at the conclusion that panic is not merely a high degree of fear, but a fear based on prolonged tension with a sudden climax, which is characterized by fear, extreme insecurity, suspiciousness, and a tendency to disorganization, or inferiority complex, and to delusions such as a feeling of being persecuted or hearing voices.

The individual becomes keen and alert mentally because of his suspicions, and yet describes his difficulties in thinking as "bewildered", "hazy", "perplexed", "puzzled" or "confused".

Naturally these difficulties in his thinking increase his lack of decision because being "panicky" he doesn't know from which direction the "danger" is going to come.

Fright is the fear reaction to sudden disaster where the only escape is flight. If the individual can flee the fright passes away. Fright disturbances are usually found after accidents and in war time.

In treating panic the specialist frankly discusses each and every thing that is causing the panic, brings it out to the full light of day, tries to correct any home or other situation that is helping to keep the patient in this condition of prolonged fear, and helps him to make his own fight, his own decisions as he gradually gets back to normal.

Chapter 14
SONYA APOLOGIZES

SONYA must be a Russian, called by the revolution and therefore bitter against it. That was why she had stared out at him when he mildly praised the Lenzists. Her manner indicated that she had come from a well-to-do family, possibly from the aristocracy.

But what about her brother? Ralph didn't appear Russian, or an alien at all. His name was English and he seemed to be an ordinary Canadian citizen. Of course he could have changed his name, and it was possible that he had lived in the Dominion longer than Sonya; but even so they were vastly different people to be brother and sister.

Altogether there was something odd about the relationship of those two, something that he could not quite fathom.

Old John took the trout from the balsam slab, divided it; and an Indian girl handed the portions around on strips of birchbark, with an oilcan and piece of bacon to each portion. As Curt passed out his cigarettes and chocolate squares, he purposely stopped with Nicholas, crouched down, and fell into talk with the entomologist.

"I understand you're not staying at Russian Lake much longer, Ralph."

"No. Mr. Higginbotham here has hired two guides for us and we're leaving tomorrow morning."

"Making a trip into the bush?"

"Yes, up the Lillimar."

A young trapper cut in bluntly: "Nicholas, if you try to go into the Kioshees ranges, it'll be just too bad, that's all! Those Kioshees ain't any tame treaty Siwash. What I mean, I'd rather fight a grizzly bear with a pine branch than grapple with them boys. When I first hit this country four years ago, I thought this talk about 'em was mostly nonsense, but I found out different!"

"You may be a scientist, Nicholas, but after nothing but harmless bugs, but they won't know you from a human being, and they don't have any more use for you than for any white man. You'll get to the pass all right, but if you go any further you'll float back down, so full of arrows you'll look like a pincushion! Ain't I right, John?"

"They don't let whites in," old John corroborated. "They'll give a man a fair caution, an if a prospector happens to stray inside, they'll take 'em out peaceably. I'm just meaning to say they shoot square with a person at first, and then if he don't take warning they shoot straight."

The city sportsman winked knowingly at Sonya. "Scare that, Miss Nicholas. They've repeated it so much that they've got to believing it themselves. You'll find those Smokies as tame as tabby cats."

Sonya quietly ignored the sportsman and spoke to the men who knew what they were talking about. "I don't deny there's a danger. But we're going to try and get on friendly terms with the Kioshees. If they understand we're altogether peaceful, they probably won't object. And we do want to work in that country. One week in there would be worth a year in a country that's been combed and combed."

CURT took no part in the discussion. By linking up Jameson's account of the wild Lillimar tribe with Sonya's sketch of their history, he could see the whole story of the Kioshees pretty clearly. Their hostility toward white people undoubtedly sprang from the brutal treatment they had received from the Russians. In so isolated a tribe, traditions would hang on for generations.

Now Sonya and Ralph were going into that pot of trouble, with no protection except a pair of guides who would desert at the first real danger. For a city girl and man to venture into territory where experienced bush-lopers stayed strictly out was sheer suicide, and not a very pleasant kind of suicide at that. At eleven-thirty the first spatter of rain broke up the party. The Indians faded into the darkness; the factor ambled home; the missioner wrapped his black robe about him and left the young trapper stuck a wolf cub in each jacket pocket and trotted for his tent.

Curt wanted to ask Sonya if he might walk up to Higginbotham's residence with her, where she and Ralph were staying; but he was afraid of getting snubbed. While he waited, Sonya said good-night to Mrs. Hodgkins and turned to him.

"I've been wanting to apologize to you, Mr. Ralston." She was really sincere about it—no contrite, in fact, that she would not look him in the eyes but stared at a button on his jacket.

"Why, it was as much my fault as yours," he insisted, as they started up toward the factor's house. "I threw out a big wild statement and you caught me up on it. But honestly"—he was thinking of her javelin-sharp words—"I'd hate to ever get into a real quarrel with you."

"Am I that bad?"

"Oh, you're positively formidable! To change the subject, there's something I'd like to say, if you won't mind my head off."

"I promise. What is it?"

"Well, if you don't mind an unsolicited opinion, I believe you and your brother ought to think twice before you start north into Kioshees territory. I don't know any-thing about the Kioshees myself, but I do know that some of these northern Dinehs can't be judged by the hands closer to civilization."

"But we've thought twice already, Mr. Ralston, and we've decided it's worth the risk."

She said it so conclusively that Curt dropped the subject. If he was to stop them, he would have to think up some way more effective than argument.

At the door of the residence they chatted a few moments about the party, and then Sonya bade him good night. Curt turned away reluctantly, looking back once for a glimpse of her as she stood outlined in the shaft of light from the door.

HE told himself when the Karakhan hunt was over he was going to look her up, find out who she really was, and try for a better acquaintance. He would be a poor detective if he could not trace Ralph and her.

The rain came on in earnest shortly after he reached camp. A high wind lashed the pines, woke up the lake and tugged at their tent; rain fell in gusty sheets; flash after flash of lightning banded into the timber and rolled bellowing across the lake.

Sitting on their sleeping pokes, he and Paul waited for the time when they could begin their work. Not long after the storm began, Curt felt a trickle of water on his hat brim. He reached for his torch and looked up. About two feet down from the ridgepole a neat hole the size of a pencil had appeared in the canvas. On the opposite wall and at the same height was another hole.

"Look Paul—how'd those get there? No stick would blow clear through both."

A livid white flash lit up the tent as plain as day. An instant later—kip-plang!—their nested set of aluminum dishes, lying on a box near the flap-front, suddenly exploded in a dozen directions, as though possessed of some diabolic magic.

In the rolling thunder Curt heard the half-muffled bark of a rifle.

He sprang to his feet. "Hell! Somebody's shooting at our tent! It's that breed!"

They grabbed slickers and automatics, and leaped outside. Throwing themselves down behind the firewood, they waited for the next spurt of rifle fire to stab the darkness.

"Watch back in the timber, Paul. I'll watch down toward the fort. He's in one of those directions. He's not out on the lake or around the post anywhere."

A minute lengthened to three, five, Curt had never known it to rain so hard as just then, or to lighten so tremendously. One moment they were blinded by a dazzling glare; in the next the dark dropped like a pall.

They lay there for ten minutes, praying for just one glimpse of a rifle flash. But the sniper did not shoot again.

"We might as well go back in," Curt suggested finally. "I ought to've taken your advice and left him over on the island. We saved him from a soaking and then got it ourselves."

"Sometimes we're going to have a showdown with that slinker. He's going to kill us or we're going to kill him."

It was exactly Curt's own thought. (Copyright, 1932, William B. Mosley)

Postponement

POSTMASTER GENERAL FARLEY'S vacation abroad postponed by several weeks more any showdown on the patronage which many democratic congressmen think is long in arrears.

It appears now that the demand for more and bigger appointments will come to its climax after congress convenes early in January. If that climax lives up to the advance notices, it will be a major capital hill attraction.

The politicians were only guessing when they read all sorts of meanings into Al Smith's visit to the White House.

Many people forget that public characters are human beings after all, and are expected to observe the ordinary courtesies. Smith came to Washington on other business, and it would have been contrary to custom had he failed to drop in at the executive offices.

The governmental picture is changing so rapidly that department estimates of next year's expenditures are next to impossible to draft.

The delay in these estimates has put the house appropriations chiefs behind schedule in preliminary work on the big supply bill. The deficit uncertainty likewise has delayed greatly the administration's liquor tax program, because officials didn't know how much revenue they would need.

No Hesitancy Here

THE quick response to the White House invitation for a conference of Governors and mayors gives a clue to the troubles local executives are having.

Many had about come to their wits' end in the matter of relief and rejoiced when Mr. Roosevelt held out a promise that the federal government would take a larger share in the work. They came running.

The Washington conference has enabled many a governor and mayor to say to his constituents that the responsibility now rests elsewhere.

BUDGET worries are coming into the picture again at Washington. After several months in eclipse, Budget Director Douglas soon will appear prominently in the news again.

The administration doesn't know yet how big the deficit, including recovery expenditures, is likely to be.

The governmental picture is changing so rapidly that department estimates of next year's expenditures are next to impossible to draft.

The delay in these estimates has put the house appropriations chiefs behind schedule in preliminary work on the big supply bill. The deficit uncertainty likewise has delayed greatly the administration's liquor tax program, because officials didn't know how much revenue they would need.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON—Those who have watched the functioning of the administration's gold policy are speculating as to just how much further the price at which the $200 will buy the metal is to be advanced. Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, ardent inflationist, contends the purchase price should be pressed until it reaches $41.34 an ounce, or double its statutory level.

Another group, with which is aligned the Committee for the Nation, argues that the price be advanced 75 per cent to $34.17 an ounce. One of the President's financial advisers, Professor Warren, has said of this figure that it "would bring quick recovery, quickly put men back to work, and quickly balance national budgets."

There is in the conservative group which counsels careful handling of the situation so as to avert serious, like violent changes which might lead to speculative hysteria.

Seeking The 'Honest Dollar'

IT IS significant, perhaps, that at the recent White House conference on the monetary situation both sides were represented around the table. Senator Thomas' plan of a maximum advance of 50 per cent from the present 23.22 grains of gold in the dollar, the Oklahomaan believes, would be a direct way to make real and processed commodities worth more money.

The theory is that while the value of the dollar would be lowered to him who has it, a greater number of dollars would be in the hands of those who have labor, service and products to sell.

It is an effort to get back the so-called "honest dollar"—that financial term coined by organized agriculture.

Thomas and his school of currency thought contend this plan will restore the 1926 price level, which is said to correspond with the level at which the great part of existing debts were contracted.

It's No. All Clear

NOT everyone understands the policy now being followed by the administration.

To find just what the President has in mind some return to the third of last July and review the sensational message Roosevelt sent to the world economic conference at London.

"Let me be frank in saying," he declared, "that the United States seeks the kind of a dollar which a generation hence will have the same purchasing power and debt-paying power as the dollar value we hope to attain in the near future."

SHOKAN

Shokan, Nov. 27.—Mansfield McKelvey, Boiceville's well known nonagenarian, is up and around again after having been ill with a severe cold.

Mrs. Gabriel Richard has returned to Flushing, L. I., after having spent the summer and fall at the Richard farm in the west end.

The water of the east basin of the reservoir is now at the 577-ft. elevation, or 10 feet below the normal flow line. The west basin is full and the overflow under the 15 arches of the dividing weir bridge is about three inches deep at the crest of the weir. The aerator has been shut off for the winter months.

Claude Rose, local contracting carpenter, is employed at Grant DeSilva's on the north boulevard.

Harry Davis, well known young business man of lower Broadway, Kingston, was a business caller in Shokan Wednesday.

Lewis Bodie and Henry Wells of Ashokan are chopping wood for Paul James near the Ridge Road. The firewood game is being played with spirit these days, both by dealers and those who lay by their own supply of the fuel for winter. Coal is being saved for colder weather and the smell of wood fires generally is in the air.

It is decided to continue the Ashokan and Krumville county road projects under the new Federal plan, that will be good news indeed to many men in the town of Olive. The road work is badly needed here and it is hoped also that Supervisor Lyons' suggestion for inaugurating a docking program along the freshet-ridden streams of the town will bear fruit in additional employment for local residents.

William Gaffin of Kingston spent the week-end at the home of his aunt, Mrs. William J. Green of the lower village.

November 27, 1887, the funeral was held at the Shokan Reformed Church of Mrs. Henry K. Merrihew of Olive Bridge. Mrs. Merrihew's funeral was said to have been the largest ever held in this section up to that time; the old church, one of the largest rural places of worship in the county, could not hold all the people who gathered to pay their respects to the memory of this estimable lady. Deceased was the daughter of George M. Davis, a well known resident of the west side of the Esopus Creek, and a sister to the late Isaac Davis. The late Isaac Merrihew was a son, and Levan and Russell Merrihew, local bus line operators, are great-grandsons of Mrs. Merrihew.

A force of city employees is engaged in cutting firewood on the reservoir preserve near the residence of Foreman Spencer Jones at Ashokan.

Mrs. Neva Deyo is having her attractive north boulevard residence repainted.

The condition of Grant DeSilva, Boiceville storekeeper who has been ill of pneumonia at his home for the past week, is reported as favorable. Dr. J. J. Cosgrove of Shokan is attending Mr. DeSilva.

Charles Green of the village center is clearing off his pasture lot on the state road near Hogsback. "Charlie" is getting quite a bunch of firewood as a result of his latest improvement.

Justus and Earl North of the North Construction Company are building a fireplace at Ellenville. Earl Kira of the heights section is assisting with the work.

John McKelvey is having a four-car garage erected across the road from the McKelvey farmhouse on Route 23. Frank Ingalls of Greene county is putting up the garage which will be rented out to automobile owners at the conservation corps camp and tourists who patronize Mr. McKelvey's camping grounds.

Herman Morris of the Department of Water Supply local force, has been detailed to temporary duty at the gate house down at the aerator park.

"Little Turtle" Graves

Little Turtle, one of the greatest Indians of his time, is reported to be buried in a spot now located in the back yard of a Fort Wayne, Ind., physician.

Industrial Warfare Ended in New York

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 28 (AP).—The adjustment of the tannery strike at Gloversville virtually ended industrial warfare in New York which during the past two months raged in a dozen cities throughout the state, affecting more than 5,000 workers.

There still are unsettled disputes in a few places but they have not led to violence and have affected only small groups of workers. Reports to the Associated Press show that a small clothing establishment strike in Poughkeepsie and two small arguments in Buffalo are the only industrial differences north of New York city.

The Gloversville strike, removing 2,000 workers from pay rolls, was the most serious in the upstate region. It continued more than seven weeks and caused many of the leading glove making establishments of Gloversville and Johnstown to shut down because of a shortage of hides.

The National Labor Board brought about settlements of the Gloversville strike, the art metal workers' walkout at Jamestown and a strike of 50 employees of an engine muffler factory at Utica. The Buffalo regional board ended the General Cable Corporation strike while at Port Jervis and Hornell silk workers negotiated direct with their employers.

The terms of the Jamestown settlement were similar to those approved in Gloversville. The plants there were to absorb as rapidly as possible the 550 men who walked out. Wages, hours and all disputable questions were left to collective bargaining. The Jamestown strike lasted more than four months.

Four hundred employees returned to their looms early in November when silk mills at Port Jervis and Matamoras, Pa., across the Delaware strike had lasted several months. Most of the industrial cities of up-state New York, including Rome, Schenectady, Amsterdam, Syracuse, Watertown, Binghamton and Rochester have not had strikes or lockouts. In most instances more workers are employed and plants are working more hours.

"Get off of that stuff from now on. It's no good. Never again—that's me."

A well-known detective magazine article says it is impossible for any man to disappear without leaving a trace of his whereabouts. Well, what about Jack Garner, a local man?

Jennings—My wooden leg pained me terribly last night.
Jefferys—How's that?
Jennings—My wife hit me over the head with it.

The Goofies were moving to another house. Suddenly Mrs. Goofey discovered that little Archibald was missing.
Mrs. Goofey—Have you seen my little boy?
Morning Man—No, ma'am, I ain't seen nothing of him since we rolled up the carpet that went out on our first load.

During the days of his courtship about all a fellow's able to concern himself is on which side to part his hair and how to pick out a pretty shirt.

Alfred—Did you hear Edith Pratt is marrying an X-ray specialist?
Joseph—Well, she's certainly lucky. Nobody else could see anything in her.

Pretty Shopper—I want some golf balls for a gentleman, please.
Salesman—Certainly, madam. What sort does he like?
Pretty Shopper—Well, the only time I ever saw him play he used a little white one but I can't say he exactly liked it.

We have noticed that the men who have got ahead in the world are the fellows who in early life began looking for dollars for keepsakes.

Then there was the five-year-old girl who overheard a neighbor woman tell her mother that the stork had just brought a baby to the Hamiltons.

Neighbor (concluding)—It weighs seven pounds.
Little Girl (gravely)—How much was it a pound?

SHORTS.—According to a well-known dentist, a husband is nothing but a sweetheart with the nerve killed. A man is old when he can pass an apple orchard and not a member a stomach-ache. There's a certain Kingston man who has a heart of gold—yellow and hard.

To catch a fish you may have to change to the right hook, but to land the opposite sex you have to vary your line. The girl who parades the beach in hardly more than a coat of suntan would die rather than appear in public without her nose powdered. The druggists are putting lunch counters in now. They've had indignation tablets on sale all along.

Calling his new girl "Sugar," often gives the boy friend a lump in his throat. When their money ceases to converse the men of power become speechless. It's folly to walk in one's sleep unless you know the places that keep open nights. Some of the Round Table conferences don't seem to be on the square. Never forget that all human plans depend upon individuals. Worry is the interest paid on trouble before it falls due. We expect too much and do entirely too little to make what we expect come true.

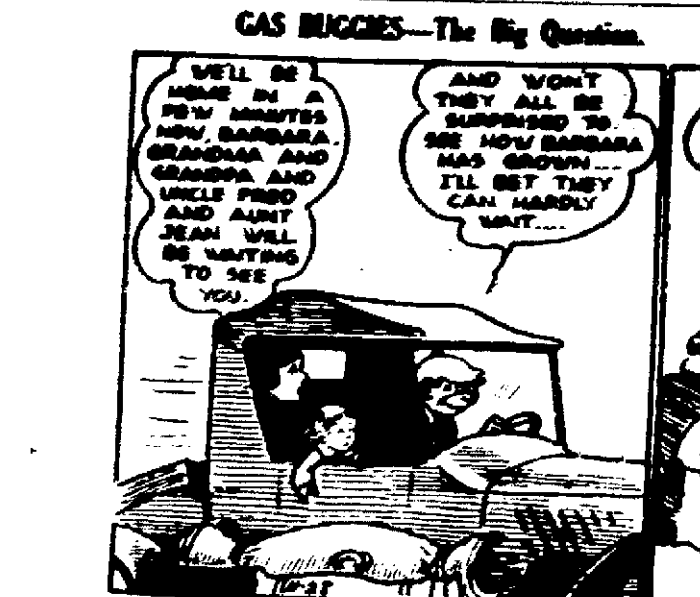

Trump—The lady next door just gave me a piece of cake she made. Won't you give me something, too?
Housewife—Yes, I'd better give you a digestive tablet.

Will Ask to Restore Bounty on Wolves

Malone, N. Y., Nov. 28 (AP).—The wolves that are now prowling through the Adirondacks for the first time in a hundred years are both big and bad, but if Supervisor Ezra Carpenter of Owl Head has his way, it will soon be their turn to be afraid.

He says he will ask the board of supervisors to restore the old bounty on wolves in an effort to exterminate them.

Speaking before the supervisors in session here, Carpenter asserted wolves are so numerous in his town that they are rapidly depleting deer herds and killing hundreds of game birds and rabbits. Until a few weeks ago wolves were thought to be extinct in this section.

During the early fall a young Canadian timber wolf was caught in a trap by Robert and Dick Kilmington of Whippleville in a remote region known as "King's Mill." Thousands of persons have visited the Kilmington farm to have a look at the animal. One zoo offered the captors $150 for him.

Yesterday they caught another young timber wolf in a trap near their farm.

Farmers in the town of Belmont continue to report hearing wolves howling at night. Several hunters have reported seeing packs of the gray marauders and of taking shots at them without effect. A week ago a trapper found the toes of a wolf in one of his traps.

So many requests have come to Supervisor Carpenter, he said, that he wants a bounty placed on the animals before the number increases. He believes the bounty could be paid out of funds taken in by the state for hunting, fishing and trapping licenses.

Hammers and Saws, This, That and More, Heard at Boiceville

Shelton, Nov. 27.—Life goes along smoothly at Camp No. 2, C. C. C., where work is the rule rather than the exception and each man bends cheerfully to his appointed task during the daytime, while the long evenings offer full opportunity for rest and recreation. Although the sound of saw and hammer is still heard in the upper Esopus valley, as construction work approaches the final stage, there is about the big camp a settled atmosphere that hints of peace and comfort, as well as industry, during the long winter months to follow. Not least among the factors which enhance this feeling of well being to the completion of the kitchen with its three large coal-burning ranges, hot water boilers, hot and cold water, and diverse other modern equipment units calculated to make the preparing and serving of chow a happy function. The old kitchen shack with its screened sides and army field stoves will henceforth be given over to the washing of mess kits. Picture then a wintry evening, the cook's cherry "Come and get it!" the brawny kitchen police filling up the serving tables with great pans of food, piping hot; some two hundred young men seated in the dining room part of the long hall—all willing, nay eager, to "put it away" as only men primed for their eat in the great open spaces can do that little thing! The rule is, eat all you want but don't take any food from the room. Nuff said.

Now, about that hammer and saw business—a carload of lumber finally has arrived at the Cold Brook railroad station, and carpenter work on the 20x72 foot assembly hall is being pushed with all possible speed by Lieutenant Wiesnecke and Supervisor Clarence Voss of Shandaken who have fifteen men on this particular job. An office building for Sgt. Ralph Craner and his C. C. C. staff has been started and it is expected that a garage for housing the eight trucks at the camp will be next on the building program. The bathroom with its ten showers and 36 buckets for washing purposes is in use and the work of equipping the new latrine with modern plumbing is well along. Sections of the old tent flooring have again been put into use as platforms in front of the entrance to all barracks and also as smooth footing for the basketball squad in their outdoor practice games in the open court at the south end of the grounds.

At morning Lieutenant Whitman and Corporal Bolt had a detail of men at work packing up the thirty odd tents preparatory to shipping them back to a base depot. It is not likely that tents will again be used at Camp No. 2 which is now equipped throughout with frame buildings of semi-permanent type. The several units with their dozens of sliding windows and insulated walls and ceilings will doubtless be quite as comfortable during the summer as they are at the present time. Still, if things do get a bit too torrid in the barracks next summer, there is no doubt that Uncle Sam, who appears to think nothing is too good for his woodmen nephews, will grant a requisition of a few electric fans with which to aid and abet the cooling Esopus creek breezes.

This and That

An innovation at the camp the past week was the introduction of green wood as a fuel in the score of more of box stoves in the quarters and other buildings. Seasoned cordwood still is being hauled from Samsonville but this is mixed with green ash and hard maple from the Woodland Valley sector. Seasoned wood, though crackerjack stuff as a heat producer, burns up too fast for sweet economy of sake, as everyone who has to buy the fuel well knows. Green chunks will provide a slow fire and last well through the night when the boys, with their army blankets and a quilt and weary from their forest tramping, are peacefully oblivious to changes of temperature in the great hall where 42 slumberers recline between taps and reveille. And what tramps in the forests! The 135 peavies who during the past week have been scouting in the wilds of Shandaken will tell the world. Up from Moonhawk and the head of Traver Hollow the boys have climbed, struggling knee-deep in snow at the crest. Let those hypercritical folk who think the C. C. C. has it pretty soft—let these misguided individuals shine up a Catskill peak covered with ice and snow, and then give ear to the revised version of their hecklings!

Lieut. Nathan Armour has been designated as fire marshal at Camp No. 2, and Leader Thomas Velonis as deputy. The fire guards are William Lubrant and Thomas Cook. It

Money Battles That Made History

No. 2—"Not Worth A Continental" . . . Hamilton . . . Jefferson

By CARL C. CRANMER.

Washington (AP).—The very first "money battle" in the United States came right after adoption of the constitution, and waged about the colorful Alexander Hamilton, 34-year-old financial expert designated by Washington as first secretary of the treasury.

Columbus which had revolted against King George's tax and stamp act were not disposed to extend themselves in collecting taxes requested by a continental congress of vague authority.

But for the sanity of France toward England the credit of the American patriots would have been almost all in Europe, and at best only about $5,000,000 was obtained in loans from that quarter.

There was not enough from England in America to float large domestic loans although about $66,000,000 in paper money, actually worth about $8,000,000, was secured in such a way.

So the Continental Congress and colonies together issued about $450,000,000 in paper money. "Not worth a Continental" has been a stock expression since.

So, the continental congress and colonies together issued about $450,000,000 in paper money, and some historians believe harassed officials of the congress may have issued even more surreptitiously.

Not made good by any power of the congress to tax, this currency began to depreciate in a few months. Near the end it was sold to paper to the tune of 100 dollars in bundles of it, made suits of clothes from the tattered bills, and paraded in jest. Eventually, part of it was redeemed at 1 cent on the dollar.

"Not worth a continental" has been a stock expression since, and conditions forced the new Constitutional Convention of 1787 which re-stricted the power of coinage to Congress, alone.

Into such a situation Hamilton stepped. Regarded as an extreme Federalist who perhaps favored monarchy, his policies were viewed with suspicion by zealous "states rights" men who feared, even, a separate national capital would be a walled city from which would swarm soldiery to oppress the individual states.

His plan to pay holders of depreciated government certificates the full face value plus interest, was contrary to popular feeling, because it was known speculators were buying up all the government paper they could from the ignorant and uninformed. But this plan won.

Southern states opposed his plan for the federal government to assume state debts as a means of solidifying national credit. The state debt was largely northern, as the southern states had financed their war expenditures by taxation or by repudiating their currency at the sacrifice of their citizens. But Hamilton won by a "horse trade" which located the national capital well to the south, between Maryland and Virginia.

Strict constitutionalists and those afraid of federal money monopoly, including Jefferson and Madison, opposed his plan for a United States Bank. Hamilton won on that, too, although in the senate there were but three affirmative votes south of Maryland.

Although he preferred the single gold standard, Hamilton recognized that most of the coins in circulation were silver, and so the Mint Act of 1792 provided for a bimetallic standard, with the gold-silver ratio at 15 to 1.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.) No Smoke.

Philadelphia—Eddie Hinkle, 16, wanted a smoke in the worst way and, it appears, that's about the way he went after it. Police said he whipped out a pistol and demanded a cigarette from Charles Palmer. The latter shouted for help and Hinkle was captured and lodged in jail—still without his smoke.

A Record.

Pana, Ill.—W. Frank White, county superintendent of schools, thinks Shelby county holds some kind of a record, but isn't sure. In going over the rolls he found 30 sets of twins enrolled in the school.

Unhappy Ending.

Black River Falls, Wis.—The Martins and Gustafsons went to a dance and enjoyed themselves until they left the dance hall and two women allegedly bowed Archie Martin while he was tinkering with his balky automobile motor. Martin lost his temper. He began beating the women. Carl Gustafson drew a pistol and wounded Martin. Gustafson went to jail and Martin to a hospital.

Duck.

Pittsburgh—Accused of stealing three ducks, Robert Lewis, 19, a negro, told Judge S. J. Saxe he was awakened in his home by a quacking sound, and lo, there were three ducks in the room.

"I guess they wanted to come in out of the cold and rain," he explained, but he couldn't satisfy the court as to why the ducks crossed the Monongahela river from the home of Mrs. Anna Kurka to his shelter. He was ordered to pay $5 for the ducks and was placed on two years' probation.

Net Clash on Ice.

Seattle—Tennis on skates is planned here for the Shriners' ice carnival here next Saturday night.

Howard (Pep) Harper, player on the Seattle professional hockey team, says it can be done.

Max Drange, winner of numerous Pacific northwest tennis tournaments last summer, says he'll try it.

Rebuilders, If You Please.

Eugene, Ore.—They're no longer cobblers. Those who care for the soles of shoes met here and organized the Oregon State Shoe Rebuilders' Association. The state body will affiliate with the National Federation of Master Shoe Rebuilders, which has been recognized by the National Recovery Administration.

Face to Face.

Ossining, N. Y.—William Cunningham, a policeman who plays right tackle for the Mamaroneck All-Stars football team in his spare time, was more than a little surprised when his team played the Sing Sing prison eleven.

Facing him was Sing Sing's star left tackle, Whitey Hadd, whom Cunningham arrested for robbery and assault two years ago and who is now serving a long term. Prison officials said there was no "rough stuff" between the two. Sing Sing won, 3 to 0.

Highlights of State Liquor Control Plan

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 28 (AP).—Highlights of the "state authority plan" of liquor control, recommended by the New York State Commission for the revision of tax laws, are as follows:

Distribution of all liquor, except "naturally fermented" wines and beer of less than 4 per cent alcoholic content, by a public corporation, whose directors would be appointed by the governor for long overlapping terms.

Sale of package "goods" by private grocers, drug stores and similar places, acting as agents for the authority, or by a chain store system to be set up by the authority, or both.

Designation of responsible hotels, restaurants and clubs to serve liquor on the premises at bars or at tables, with or without meals.

Strict observation of local option. Distribution of 90 per cent of the estimated $65,000,000 revenue to local government units for use in relieving real estate tax loads.

FASHIONS By ELEANOR GUNN

Boyish Collars for Girlish Coats

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild.

Gray knicker makes the Peter Pan collar on the models at left that adopt the military lines of a guardsman's coat. Leopard is used to effective advantage on the coats at the right that are equally English in character.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Fatigue cap turbans of fur are quoted as very much in favor. One model has a pleated tip of felt with a deep cuff of Persian lamb finished with a point at back. This is smart in black or gray.

Reboux' evening hat of lame and black fringed cloth is a good type and is also made in two tones of velvet or two shades of a woolen. Women have them to correspond with costumes.

Glittering Gowns and Accessories

New York—Things are certainly brighter, if not better. Ask any dress shop proprietor; he will tell you that there has been a great reaction from the sober colors of the prohibition days to the glowing colors of wine itself and the sparkle of champagne.

Glitter is not entirely concerned with fabrics, however, for beads and sequins are bright and shining ways of producing sparkle. Little jackets entirely done in beads—sequins or bangles—give a lively look to night life fashions, with the beads repeated in girdles and yokes.

Important looking evening gowns, in crepe, or velvet, are embroidered in beads—rhinestones, crystals or bangles, in all over fashion in flower or leaf motifs, also in more scattered expressions, or in bands at décolletage, waistline and hips.

It all makes for a lively scene, especially with the revived practice of wearing trailing gowns. While the one model sketched has a noticeable absence of train, it is the sort of dress a woman might wear under her fur coat not designed solely for evening purposes. The high collar and long sleeves, in fact, the cut of the skirt and its flaring, do not prepare one for the cut-away back, or, early frothing over with spangles. It's these delightful little surprises that make going about nights more interesting than before.

The long-sleeved dinner gown that is cut in T or deep oblong shape at the back is a favorite; also the dress with bodice slashed at the back, making it possible to wear it open or closed.

The jacket ensemble for dinner wear is still a favorite, with the type that has the appearance of a dress with long sleeves the accented one. Sometimes the jacket costumes introduce a contrasting fabric—a lame for the jacket, for example, and crepe for the skirt, and frequently the costume is so styled that it is not intended that the jacket be removed.

Another Cause for Thanksgiving: Turkey Will Be Lower This Year

Try A New York State Turkey, Counsels Commissioner Baldwin

By CHARLES H. BALDWIN
Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets
Albany, New York

MOTHER Nature has done her year's work. The fruits of earth have been garnered. Families and friends gather about the festive board on Thanksgiving Day with praise in their hearts that the earth has again been lavish in her response to the husbandman's skill and that beauty and joy and happiness still attend.

Time and greater knowledge has changes in the character of the feast and its observance. One thing remains the same, however—the central place about which the "fixins" are arranged. The turkey still holds first place, although to the rest of the menu have come many changes. The variety served, the size of the portion, the combination of foods, have all been modified. And pie, which used to appear in several varieties in the holiday meal, must now share honors with lighter desserts.

These radical changes are due, of course, to changing viewpoint first as regards the function of food, and second as to the significance of the holiday. The modern knowledge of nutrition has taught us the value of the simple menu with emphasis on the protective foods—milk, vegetables, fruit—and instead of giving heartfelt thanks for Nature's bounty, as did important producing counties are: St. Lawrence, Jefferson, Lewis, Oneida, Oswego, Chautauque, Delaware, Steuben, Otsego and Erie. The first three produce half the turkey crop of the State. Other important counties are Dutchess, Albany, Wyoming, Cortland, Cattaraugus and Washington.

Although turkeys formerly sold for considerably more per pound than chickens, the improvement in production methods had lowered the cost, and the spread in price between turkeys and chickens has decreased greatly in recent years. While the price received in 1932 will lead many turkey growers to reduce or discontinue their flocks, the very low prices for feed made it possible to produce the birds in that year at a very low price.

AGRICULTURE

A new cherry, Royal Duke, a hybrid between a sweet and a sour cherry—is excellent for home use or for roadside trade.

As a winter substitute for pasture, feed brood sows alfalfa or other legume hay. The hay should make up 10 to 15 per cent of the total feed.

Uncle Ab says it is better to proceed safely at thirty, than to stop too suddenly at sixty; and that goes for years of age, or miles per hour.

A recipe for corned lamb is included in the Cornell bulletin on curing meats, which is sent on request from the New York state college of agriculture at Ithaca. Ask for E-241.

A bull owned by John Hamming & Son of Marion, Wayne county, heads the list of living proved sires in New York state. The daughters of this bull have an average annual production of 18,746 pounds of milk and 658 pounds of butterfat.

Dorothy Kutchback, fifteen-year-old 4-H club member from Sherburne, Chenango county, placed first in the New York 4-H poultry judging contest held recently at the college of agriculture, and won a gold medal. Ralph Harper, of Monticello, and Jack Grover of Warsaw, Wyoming county, placed second and third.

Turkey meat in cold storage is one-third under the average amount of the last five years.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Nov. 27.—The merry little and musical town of the new hamlet almost daily of late from the Van Buren mill at Broadhead, is so industrially inactive in Mr. Van Buren's line.

The recent death is noted of Harry Wood, veteran Usher and Delaware engineer, now the Catekill Mountain Division of the New York Central. He like the late Emmet Skoworth, were worthy and trusted servants in their joint professions.

Mr. Wood's kindly disposition to inquisitive boys along the line won him many and lasting friends. These boys of yesterday, whom Mr. Wood, who Mr. Skoworth, allowed to come aboard their engines without fear of punishment getting gruffly ordered off and stay off, as some engineers were accustomed, and no doubt justly, will never forget those acts of kindness which so thrilled an adoring boy's heart. The writer of this column was one of those boys.

Congratulations and many happy turns of the day to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kestor of Olive Bridge, proud parents of their first born, Harry, junior.

Harold Constable is engaged in getting much needed firewood supply from the unlimited growth on the old homestead at High Point Mountain.

If the Federal Civil Works program becomes a reality, such action should bring a Merry Christmas and perhaps a belated Thanksgiving to the town of Olive.

Mr. Joseph Mearns of Shokan, devoted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow, spent Tuesday with her parents.

Francis Every of Watson Hollow has disposed of his fine flock of Thanksgiving turkeys to a Kingston dealer according to current report.

Commissioner of Highways William Jordan of Broadhead Heights was a business caller here on Thursday.

Miss Olive Shurtz of Samserville, popular Kingston high school senior class member, suffered a nervous breakdown while at school Thursday and was removed to her home by one of the teachers.

Miss Shurtz's host of friends sympathize most keenly. Francis Whitwell with a powerful one-horse team is drawing firewood for the home fires at Broadhead.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Sarah Dwyer of West Shokan Heights paid a neighborly call upon her sisters, Mrs. John Henshaw and Miss Annie Louth of Main street.

The latter is said to have not fully recovered from the harrowing experience she underwent recently, when she became lost while paying a visit to her girlhood home on the mountain near Boltonville. Miss Louth was found at midnight by a searching party in a dazed and nearly frozen condition lying in the roadside ditch near the Oakes estate.

Mrs. Frank Whittier of Tuckaway Farm spent Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Watson Bishop of West Shokan Heights.

Raw fur price lists are making their annual appearance. However, with black prime skunk hides which a few years back were worth nearly their weight in gold, now are quoted well under two dollars, the average once ardent trapper feels inclined to turn thumbs down till increasing prices compensate for the abominable aroma attending.

Alvin Markle of Acorn Hill, successful farmer and poultryman, was a caller on local members of the recent county brush cutting gang of which he was foreman.

Edward Every of Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow, who recently returned to the Presbyterian Hospital in New York city, has had another toe removed. His present condition is favorable according to report.

Charles Healey, with the assistance of his sturdy son, Irving, is hauling a recently cut supply of winter firewood.

Now that Old Man Winter has loosened up appreciably, farmers are quick to avail themselves of the opportunity to resume interrupted fall ploughing, held up for the past three weeks.

Lauren Healey trucked a load of Pennsylvania coal on Wednesday for his employer, William V. Colange, prominent local merchant.

It is learned with regret that Dr. DuMont of Olive Bridge, the town's beloved veteran physician, is critically ill at his home, due to his long-affected heart condition. Ward Croft, another aged and highly respected lifelong Olive Bridge citizen, is seriously ill of high blood pressure.

Community Sunday School was well attended on Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Mrs. John Thompson, superintendent, conducted the service, while Mr. Thompson of Shokan officiated as primary teacher. Next Sunday's lesson topic will be, "Paul in Ephesus." Sunday school next Sunday at the usual time. The Sunday school is planning to hold a Christmas entertainment but the date as yet is not certain. All birthday money is requested to be in by next Sunday, at the latest. The Sunday school is very sorry to lose one of its most faithful members, Joe Shokan, who is going to live with his brother in Connecticut and there continue his school work. Everyone wishes Joe luck and good success.

A goodly local quota, including visitors from Shokan, Woodstock and the C. C. Camp at Boltonville, local community church service, the present tentative preaching arrangement with the Rev. C. F. Ahrens having ended after his faithful appearance every Sunday since early May. No further regular service will be held till Christmas Sunday. Even now there is a keen feeling of regret on the part of many that the featured services have ended. The text of the day from St. John 14, "Let Not Your Heart be Troubled," proved a fitting topic for Mr. Ahrens' very capable address. The full choir present consisted of Hazel Geyer, Louise Thompson, Jane Snyder, Dorothy Smith, Vernie Davis and Helen Thompson organist. A request due decidedly well pleasing was rendered by Fred C. Toms and Mr. Ahrens, "It is Well With My Soul." Mrs. Toms, former church organist, accompanied. Mr. Carner of the C. C. C. sang splendidly as a solo, "He Knows the Way." A duet, "Alone," sung by Helen and Louise Thompson, was also a pleasing feature of the special musical program.

Although Friday night affairs were a surrounding feature, the local Sunday school's chicken supper and entertainment was successful. The sum of $13.75 above expenses was realized toward the Christmas presents fund. The sumptuous supper menu consisted of roasted chicken, mashed potatoes, rolls, butter, cabbage and potato salads, peas, pickles, cranberries, celery, jelly, ice cream, cakes and coffee. The serving was done by young lady members of the school.

After the supper all adjourned to the church auditorium and enjoyed the program, every number of which proved a very delightful feature. The program given was as follows: America, all present; song, "My Sweetheart's the Man in the Moon"; Charles Weidner, Jr.; "Juanita"; group of girls; "Workin' on the Railroad"; choir; address, Mr. Ahrens; song, "I Don't Want to Play in Your Yard"; Charles Weidner, Jr.; duet, "Just a Little Street Where Old Friends Meet"; Louise Thompson and Winnie Weidner; solo, "Moonlight Down in Lovers' Lane"; Vern Carney; poem, "If"; Mr. Ahrens; chorus, "In the Evening by the Moonlight"; choir; solo, "Saved, Saved"; Mr. Ahrens; song, "Smile Awhile"; all present; closing selection, "Till We Meet Again", all present.

The reservoir communities' all-star Thanksgiving event looming for Wednesday evening is the Odd Fellows' annual oyster supper and dance program. The oyster stew will be prepared as formerly by Virgil Gordon and Oscar Dudley, experts extraordinary. Indications favor a capacity crowd. Supper served from 6 o'clock. Everybody welcome.

After a month's sojourn at the Hickory Hill tenement on North Main street, Edward Van Kleeck and mother have removed to the caretaker's cottage on the H. C. Ford estate. Mr. Van Kleeck severing his many years' connection as herdsman at High Point Springs Farm, now assumes the Ford estate superintendency. Gilbert North, employed in that capacity for a number of years past, has purchased a 50-acre farm near High Falls. Mr. North carries to his new vocation the well wishes of his many friends about the old home community.

Dr. J. D. W. DuMont of Olive Bridge reported critically ill last week. It is about the house again with a determination to again be of service to his fellow men when duty calls.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By NORMAN COONS

MOLLYWOOD—Extremely successful stage plays usually are regarded as "pieces" for the movie director given the job of translating them into screen form.

Ernest Lubitch, who recently finished "Design for Living," considers the successful stage play the most difficult to film.

He would rather direct from a scenario written especially for pictures, because famous plays have legions of admirers—and each admirer of a play is a potential detractor of its film form if the picture deviates ever so slightly from the play.

And yet directors must bear in mind that they are making pure motion picture entertainment.

A 'Counterfeit Presentment'

"In my experience," Lubitch comments, "I never have observed a motion picture photographed with an eye to absolute fidelity to stage form; which reached within a mile the quality of that play. The reason for this is that the screen is an art form in itself—related to stagecraft, true, but by no means the same."

"With this in mind, I analyzed

Talks to parents

Right and Wrong
 By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

"What is right and what is wrong?" It is a question sometimes put up to parents in just such flat terms, and it pays to answer such a searching commentary on life with some care.

There was a time when the answer seemed comparatively easy, for black was black and white was white, and there was little apparent middle ground. Today when everything seems an indeterminate gray, and conventions which were once assumed to have a moral value are crumbling, it is a puzzling thing to find an absolute guide-post.

A more complete knowledge of customs in other lands and at other times has made us question the rules of the game, which is basically what conventions are. To the child who can see only a short distance ahead and who has little experience to guide him, the answers to his questions about right and wrong seem vague and at times contradictory.

Perhaps it could be made to see life as an endeavor to enable people to live together in peace and harmony, with the greatest possible freedom for growth and development to all, he would come to appreciate the use of conventions. They must vary from time to time and from land to land, according to the different ideals of life which exist. He can probably be brought to see their necessity in guiding conduct.

Underneath the conventions lies the one great rule on which they are based, which is kindness, not willfully harming anyone. But the child must in time be brought to see how far-reaching such a rule is, until he comes to a searching analysis of his conduct in its farthest reaches.

It is a long-time task, this training, and far harder than our parents had to face, but in the end it makes for a more real and basic morality.

Senate Opposition To Conboy Is Seen

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—Notice of Senate opposition to confirmation of Martin Conboy, President Roosevelt's selection for district attorney for southern New York, was served today by Senator Charles McNary, D-Mich.

Conboy was congratulated by members of the Senate stock market investigating committee as he appeared today for the first time since his appointment was announced as attorney for Albert H. Wiggin, former chairman of the Chase National Bank.

As other members of the committee congratulated the smiling attorney, Conboy's remarks to him were "I am glad to be here."

"You're not alone," Conboy replied with a smile. "I am here with a team."

One of Conboy's colleagues made a remark to him in a low voice and he Michigan senator replied: "Well I might as well be frank with him, as I know what he's up against."

Newspapermen asked Conboy if he planned to oppose Conboy's confirmation. "I certainly do," he replied.

Dr. Smith is preaching in the pastored Presbyterian Church at Mt. Vernon, three miles from his home in Vernon Center. Last Sunday morning Dr. Smith preached on "Some Conditions of Recovery or Spiritual Recovery," emphasizing the importance of the return of the church to its former activities which prevailed during the middle and latter part of the past century, before it has power to cope with the present conditions in the life of man. Dr. Smith will preach the Thanksgiving day sermon at the union services to be held in the Baptist Church at Mt. Vernon. He is also serving as pulpit supply of the Klock Memorial Chapel at Vernon.

Wynekoop Defense Will Charge Robbery

Chicago, Nov. 25 (AP)—A contention that her pretty daughter-in-law was slain by a robber was definitely indicated today as the defense Dr. Alice Wynekoop will make, if and when she is brought to trial for the death of Mrs. Rheta Wynekoop.

This revelation was made by Dr. Wynekoop's attorney, Frank Tyrrell, who said that his client would maintain that her statement that Rheta died accidentally from chloroform and that a bullet was fired into the girl's body to make the death look like it was caused by an intruder, was a fabrication.

"She knows nothing of all that stuff," Tyrrell said. "All she actually knows is what she told the police in the first place—that she found Rheta dead, discovered $6 missing, and called for medical aid and for an embalmer."

"Any statement she may have made to contradict her first one was given after she had been without sleep for 70 hours and in response to clever suggestions of police, prosecutors or their allies. Her first statement is her true statement and that will be her defense."

Anna DuBois Stands Well in 4-H Club

Anna DuBois, New Paltz, will leave this week for Chicago where she will represent Ulster county in the National 4-H Club congress from December 4 to 7. This honor comes to Anna as a result of her outstanding record in 4-H activities for the last four years. This is her story.

Anna was instrumental in organizing the Huguenot Homemaking Club in 1929, and was elected its president. During that year she made two dresses and an apron, and canned fruits and preserves and baked muffins.

The first annual rally day was a big day for Ulster county 4-H members and especially for the Huguenot Club, for its members took home with them the silver loving cup offered to the club making the best showing.

At the county fair Anna won $16 in 4-H premiums, including firsts on whole grain muffins and in the style show review, and seconds on school dress and canning exhibits.

Anna was chosen one of Ulster county's first delegates to Camp Pyrrke, at state fair in Syracuse. Her exhibit of muffins at state fair placed first and her preserves second. As a result of her winnings at state fair the National Republican Club, New York City, requested her to prepare six jars of conserve to be used as a special feature on their menu.

In 1931 the Huguenot Club carried an advanced project in room improvement. Anna painted her room, painted the woodwork, had a closet built, made new curtains, refinished her furniture, made and covered a dressing table and made a desk set. For her color scheme, Anna chose orchid, green, and cream.

On February 7, 1931, Anna was requested to tell of the activities of her club on a 4-H radio program over station WGY, Schenectady.

In the community health contest Anna won the blue ribbon. She says that rally day was even more interesting that year because there were more activities in which the club members could take part.

Because of her success in canning and preserving, Anna was privileged to give five demonstrations on preserving fruits at the two county week-end camps for 4-H Club girls.

Anna was selected as a delegate to state club congress at Ithaca in June. While there she participated in the canning and window curtain judging contests, and spoke over the county radio station.

At county fair Anna won $12.50 and six blue ribbons. Probably her most interesting exhibit was the set-up for a room, arranged like her bedroom at home which she had improved. She with Grace Hasbrouck and Helen Rhinehart comprised the homemaking judging team which tied for first place. Again Anna exhibited at state fair and won premiums.

In 1932, Anna's major 4-H project was clothing. She says "This season I made all of my school dress, six in all, a 4-H uniform, and three pairs of pajamas."

She took a leading part in the three-act comedy, "Betty, the Girl of My Heart," which the Huguenot Club presented. The play added $87 to the club treasury.

At rally day, in June the Huguenot Club came back for the award for the club making the best showing. The award was 4-H flag.

Anna was chosen alternate for a trip to Camp Vail at Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Massachusetts. Ralph Penny of Wallkill was one of six New York delegates to make the trip.

At county fair Anna won $19 in premiums in the 4-H class, $23 on for sweepstakes in the homemaking department. She was a member of the judging team from her club. She received premiums again that year on state fair exhibits.

During 1932 Anna served as local 4-H leader for a group of 15 younger girls who took elementary projects in foods, health and clothing.

In 1933 Anna carried advanced projects in fancy cooking and sewing. She also continued her leadership of the group of younger girls.

Her own project activities included making six dresses, two pairs of pillow cases, a laundry bag, a pillow table covers, and preparation of salads and other special foods.

At the Hudson Valley poultry exposition, Anna and Elizabeth Hasbrouck gave a demonstration on the use of eggs. Again the Huguenot Club gave a three-act play, "Ted Drops In."

Anna attended the county week-end camp for older 4-H girls as a leader and reports it to be a profitable experience.

At the 1933 county fair, Anna exhibited clothing and canning and won premiums as usual. Again she was a member of the clothing judging team.

Anna was one of the six Ulster county club members to enter 1932 national 4-H Club contests. She entered the national 4-H Girls record contest.

Anna was chosen as one of the alternates for Ulster county representative at national club congress at Chicago. Since Bernard McCabe, who was chosen county representative, could not make the trip, the honor of representing Ulster county went to Anna DuBois who was one of the alternates chosen.

Sundown Stories

The Thief

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Let us in," Joney and Jelly Bear growled softly.

And there, in the darkness, Willy Nilly could see the figures of the two Bears.

"We have found the thief," they exclaimed as they went inside. "He's none other than Grandpa Grouchy Galump."

"What?" cried Willy Nilly. He called to Christopher, who was upstairs with Top Notch and Rip. They all listened as Jelly Bear told his story.

"We were just walking around Grandpa's back yard," Jelly Bear commenced.

"We weren't going to take anything, but Honey Bear had an idea that if there were any old tins around that might have scraps of food in them we could get a little extra meal without doing anyone any harm."

"Well, as we were going by Grandpa's window we saw him lifting up a mossy package and taking out money and counting it several times. It looked like a good deal of money. I'm sure it must have been $2.15."

"I wonder if you are right," said Willy Nilly, very much puzzled.

"I'll take the fresh wash to Grandpa's the first thing in the morning."

Eastern Star Holds Gala Officers' Night

Ingalls, treasurer; Mathilda Hobush, conductress; Edith Taylor, associate conductress; Florence Giles, chaplain; Mathilda Provost, Marshal; Caroline Bonestell, historian; Carrie Mullen, organist; Minetta Garon, warder; John Fluckinger, sentinel; Anna Hoffman, Adah; Elizabeth Leith, Ruth; Alice Abbott, Esther; Ellen Beecher, Martha; Georgianna Fraser, Electa; Jeanette Mollot, color bearer; Mary Spencer, soloist; Anna Young, director of lights.

After the business session, the chapter was called to recreation and a program was enjoyed. O. Roy Greene, organist and choir director of St. George's Episcopal Church of Newburgh and Mrs. Greene and their two children, O. Roy, Jr. and Beatrice, delightfully entertained the members with a program which displayed unusual talent. The program consisted of organ and piano duets with Mr. Greene at the organ and Mrs. Greene at the piano; vocal solos by O. Roy Greene, Jr., who is a boy soloist at St. George's, accompanied at the organ by his father and dance numbers beautifully rendered by Miss Beatrice accompanied at the piano by her mother. Mr. Greene, who was a former Kingston boy in the brotherhood of the Eastern Star, was the brother of Mrs. Anna Young one of Clinton Chapter's officers. Many of Mr. Greene's old friends were present to enjoy the splendid program.

During the meeting Miss Bertha Waterman, the associate matron and floral matron of Clinton chapter, who presided as the worthy matron in the observance of "Substitute Officers Night" was delightfully surprised when the members of the floral staff conferred upon her a beautiful floral ceremony.

Mrs. Helen Beatty, the associate matron of the floral staff, was the floral matron during the degree and Worthy Brother Edward Stanbrough, floral patron. The other officers were as follows: Nellie Hazenbush, associate matron; Katherine Mellert, conductress; Lella Hareout, associate conductress; Rose Stearns, chaplain; Edith M. Jones, marshal; Margaret Anderson, associate marshal; Anna Hoffman, Adah; Alice Abbott, Adah; Mary C. Smith, Ruth; Lydia Rich, Ruth; Mathilda Hobush, Esther; Ruth Vandenburg, Esther; Ellen Beecher, Martha; Harriet Huestis, Martha; Alvinette J. Gerlach, Electa; Georgianna S. Fraser, Electa; Florence B. Giles, special point; Flora Ostrander, special point; Mary Spencer, soloist.

Miss Waterman very sincerely thanked those taking part in the degree for the time and effort put forth in order to exemplify the work in such an efficient manner, and also thanked the worthy matron for any part she may have had in arranging for the degree.

Mrs. Edna L. Van Tassel, the junior deputy of the triangle of the Daughters of the Eastern Star, was escorted to the East and addressed the chapter. She spoke particularly of the work being done by the members of the Rip Van Winkle triangle and urged the members to support the young ladies in their endeavors.

Mrs. Van Tassel announced that the Rip Van Winkle triangle would hold a card party in the chapter rooms at 250 Wall street on December 29, and asked for the cooperation of those present.

Before the close of the meeting, Miss Waterman announced that a card party for Clinton chapter would be held in the chapter rooms on Friday evening, December 1, and appointed the committees for the party.

The ceremony of initiation will be conferred upon a class of candidates at the next regular meeting, December 8, and the floral degree will be conferred upon all the candidates who became members of Clinton chapter this year, either by initiation or affiliation.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Prominent Speakers At Alumni Rally

Mayor Eugene B. Carey and Member of Assembly J. Edward Conway will head the list of speakers at the Kingston High School Alumni rally Friday evening. It was announced today. Superintendent of Schools B. C. Van Ingen and Principal Clarence L. Dumm are also included on the speakers' roster. Other short addresses by prominent alumni are scheduled, and every speech has been limited to "three minutes."

Six acts of entertainment by alumni performers in the auditorium will begin the four-hour program and dancing in the gymnasium will bring the evening to a close.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "The Late Christopher Bean." A dramatic and sentimental stage hit, this enjoyable story of a painter whose art becomes famous after his death, constitutes one of the finest screen presentations in some time. Marie Dressler rises to new honors as the star of the play, and she also contributes one of the most lovable screen characterizations in history as the servant in a New England family, who loved and appreciated Christopher Bean, a drunken painter who boarded at the house.

Everyone else considers him a worthless, lazy fool, but after his death, it is discovered that his painting is world famous. There is naturally a wild scramble for the paintings he created while at the house, and the outcome of it all makes dramatic entertainment.

Supporting Miss Dressler are such capable players as Lionel Barrymore, Jean Hersholt, H. B. Warner, Helen Mack and Russell Hardie. This talkie also ushers in Wide Range sound at the Kingston theatre, a new invention that clarifies speech and makes whippers natural and understandable in every part of the theatre.

Orpheum: "Our Betters" and "A Shriek in the Night." A Somerset Maugham's English story of high society comes to the screen in the first offering, with Constance Bennett in the starring role, supported by Gilbert Roland. It is a satirical play, and capably done, in the best drawing room manner. "A Shriek in the Night" is a bit of a mystery drama that stirs up the imagination with shots in the night, strange goings on and shadows in the dark. Lyle Talbot and Ginger Rogers are in the cast.

Broadway: "The Emperor Jones." Eugene O'Neill's strange play of a negro porter who becomes a king, comes to the screen after a brilliant run on the legitimate stage and the opera, with Paul Robeson, the great negro singer in the starring role. An almost negro cast lends ample support, and this show develops into an unusual screen drama. Romance and comedy find little place in this character study of a big buck negro who has a superiority complex who leaves his job as a Pullman porter and finally rises to the throne in a negro country. Cocky, brutal, ignorant, he meets his death in the jungle of the country he sought to rule, and he dies a victim of superstition, as theoodoo drums of the natives beat in the background. Wide Range Sound is also offered at the Broadway with this attraction. Buster Crabbe, star of the serial "Tarzan the Fearless," is also an added feature of the bill.

Tomorrow

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: Same.

Broadway: "Ever in My Heart." Barbara Stanwyck and Otto Kruger have the leading roles in this rather morbid tale of love and misery. Kruger is very good as a German spy and Miss Stanwyck as a German worker, married to Kruger gives a very good performance.

Rush Indicated For Seats At Wrestling Show Tonight

This morning Carl J. "Doc" Studer, matchmaker for the American Legion benefit wrestling show, stated that only 25 reserved seats remained unsold for the mat program tonight in the old armory, which is expected to house one of the largest crowds ever seen at a sports event in Kingston.

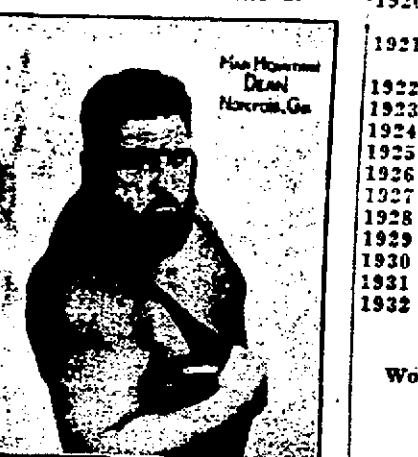

Ever since the announcement that the wrestling show would be held, orders for reserved seats have been pouring into the office of the American Legion Memorial Building. They continued today and predictions were that none would be left to offer for sale at the box office this evening.

Talk among sports fans, who plan on seeing the grapplers from the bleachers, indicate that these sections will be filled along with the ringside and reserved seats. So heavy is expected to be the demand for the low price seats that a sell-out is looked for long before the time of the first match which is scheduled for 8:15 sharp.

The doors of the armory will open promptly at 7 o'clock, instead of 7:30 as announced yesterday, in order to give the ticket holders a chance to handle the large crowd expected to rush the box office as soon as the big front doors of the old artillery drill shed swing open.

One of the reasons for the pronounced drawing power of the wrestling show is thought to be because it is the first athletic program of its kind ever sponsored in Kingston and another is the calibre of grapplers procured by Matchmaker Studer to contest in the matches.

Featuring the bill is the tussle between Jumping Joe Savoldi, one of wrestling's most outstanding men, and Emil Dusek, Omaha strong boy. These two are to fight it out to a finish. Supporting bouts down for 30 minutes each are as follows:

MAN MOUNTAIN DEAN

Man Mountain Dean, Georgia Billy Blily, vs. Stanley Sikowski, Polish-American football star.
Ell Fischer, Rutgers College Jewish star, vs. Andy Mixer, the "Polish Wildman".
Joe Bonomo, Hollywood strong man, vs. Will Ranta, Minnesota.
Tony Felice, Italy, vs. Nick Condos, Greek American, who formerly boxed for Walk Miller before that prominent sportsman died at his camp in Eddyville. Condos has many friends in Kingston.

Yellow Jackets Will Practice Wednesday

Manager Ken Dyson of the Yellow Jacket football team today announced practice for Wednesday evening at 7:15 in the rear of the old armory to prepare the Waps for their Thanksgiving Day duel with Poughkeepsie at Butts Memorial Field in that city. Proceeds of the contest will go to the Boy Scouts for their summer camp program. Starting time of the game is 2:30 o'clock.

The Yellow Jackets hold one victory over the Poughkeepsie club, having defeated it at the Fair Grounds earlier in the season, and Dyson hopes to see his men come out on the long end of the score again. Poughkeepsie's defeat by the Jackets was one of four victories rolled up by the local club, the others being over the Albany Lucky Strikes, Saratoga Brown Bears and Wakefield Pros. All were shut-out wins for the Dysonmen.

Only twice this season have the Yellow Jackets been defeated. They lost their opening game to the Fordham A. A. a real strong club, and then bowed to the celebrated Sing Sing eleven.

One game is on the record of the Kingston club, the game with the Newburgh Helios. This band of gridders is expected to return for a post-season game which if it materializes should pack the Fair Grounds with one of the largest crowds ever seen there.

Following the game with Poughkeepsie, the Yellow Jackets will have it out with Peck's Red Raiders of Cohoes, a club that was scheduled to play here earlier in the season, but did not on account of poor weather. This contest will take place at the up-town ball park on Sunday afternoon, December 2.

Burgin and Hopper, Star Sports, Ready for Action in Holiday Show—All Varsity Men on Eligibility List.

Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Fair Grounds, Kingston High School meets its ancient rival, Newburgh Free Academy, with its varsity intact and ready for lots of action.

Ed Burgin and Elmer Hopper, stellar backs of the Maroon and White, who have been laid up on account of illness and injury, were back in uniform yesterday at practice on the Athletic Field and expect to play against the Stevensmen.

The eligibility list announced Monday showed all of the varsity men up in their studies, with the o. k. of their teachers to play in the grid classic of the season. All of Newburgh's men are reported eligible too.

Records show that in the past 14 years Kingston has collected 159 points to Newburgh's 141, although the Maroon and White has not conquered the Free Academy since 1922, when the score was 6-0. In 1920 Kingston held Newburgh to a 6-5 tie. Results of the contests between the two schools since 1913 are shown by the following table:

Polish Sportsmen Tackle West Point Club Tonight

Manager "Dolly" Tessio of the Z. N. P. Sporting Club basketball team, which opened its season two weeks ago with a victory over the Poughkeepsie P. N. A. and then bowed to the Polish A. C. of the same city last week, will endeavor to get back on the winning road tonight against the West Point Helicans at White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue.

Tessio is of the opinion that several stiff practices since their defeat has put the Z. N. P. boys in shape to trim the Helicans, who last season visited the White Eagle and outpointed the Polish cagers by the close score of 26-25. Lots of action is expected.

The Z. N. P. lineup includes Bill Kennoch, Randy Kieffer and Louis Kolano, forwards; C. Musialkiewicz, center; Johnny Dudek, Joe Keltz and Eddie Musialkiewicz, guards.

On the Helicans roster are Johnny Benson, R. Gardner and W. Vradenburg, forwards; Maratta and Wittstrom, centers; Houck and B. Denny, guards.

Starting time of the contest is 8:30. There will be a preliminary at 7:30 between the Z. N. P. Girls and Comforter Club. After the contests, Andy's orchestra will play for dancing.

Cadets and Tigers Defer Consideration of Trip West

By HERBERT W. BARKER (Associated Press Sports Writer)
New York, Nov. 28 (AP)—Princeton and Army close their regular football campaigns on Saturday with their eyes on Yale and Notre Dame respectively but their ears attentive to a possible bid to the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena New Year's Day.

Sole remaining undefeated and untied major eleven in the East, the Tigers and Cadets both have indicated that any invitation to compete at Pasadena against the Far Western representative, Stanford, would receive serious consideration. Both likewise intimated they would prefer to wait until after Saturday to even think about a trip to the Pacific coast, assuming either is invited.

"After Notre Dame gets through with us," said Maj. L. D. Wortham, graduate manager of athletics at West Point, "Stanford may not consider us eligible for an invitation."

Ana Bushnell, Princeton's graduate manager, pointed out that even should the Tigers get past Yale to finish with a perfect record for the first time since 1922, there still would remain to be waived an agreement with Yale prohibiting post-season games in any sport. This rule was adopted by the two universities in 1926.

"Release from this clause never has been asked," Bushnell said. "I have no idea what Yale's attitude would be. We have heard nothing from Stanford and could scarcely consider the matter until such an invitation was received."

Stanford players have indicated they would prefer to meet Princeton, Army, Michigan, Duke or Navy in that order.

On the face of records to date neither Army nor Princeton should have any worries about Saturday's games but the trouble is that the Cadets can no more afford to take anything for granted against Notre Dame than Princeton can against Yale. Both are renewals of traditional rivalries replete with upset after upset.

Tigers Drill Hard.
Despite Yale's rout by Harvard last week, Fritz Crisler sent his Princeton squad through their most strenuous Monday drill of the season yesterday. Two varsity players, Chick Kaufman, fleet sophomore halfback, and John Weller, guard, probably will not be able to play against Yale but Crisler has all kinds of material to fill out the vacancies.

The Tigers worked mostly on developing a smoother attack and drilled intensively on forward passing against which Yale's defense was so inadequate last week. Gary Levan, 199, Rulon-Miller, Kats Kadlic and Les Kaufman, Chick's brother, all were on the throwing end of the passes to other backs and the ends.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor)

The withdrawal of Princeton's great Bill Bonthron from cross country competition, following his collapse in a triangular meet with Yale and Harvard barriers at New Haven, marks an unexpected development in the career of the youth considered the "hard rock" of the college runners.

Bonthron has always given the impression he could run most any distance all day long. Last spring he ran in three events against Yale, the 500, 1500 and 3000 meters, and won them all. He scored "doubles" in most of the other Tiger meets, as well as the outdoor intercollegiate.

His failure as a cross-country runner is in sharp contrast to the records of other great college milers. Cornell's famous John Paul Jones, not so ruggedly built as Bonthron, twice broke the world's one mile record but he found the cross-country distances, up to six miles, very much to his liking as well as good training.

Jones, in fact, was undefeated in varsity championship cross-country during the period of 1910 to 1912.

Other star milers, such as Johnny Overton of Yale, had no trouble adjusting themselves to the hill and dale competition with marked success. Paavo Nurmi, the celebrated Finn, was the world's cross-country champion at the time he was also the Olympic 1500 meter king and holder of the world's one-mile record of 4:10.4.

Ray Sears, great little miler of Butler College (Indiana) holds the national 10,000 meter cross-country title.

Can't Judge Pace
The answer in Bonthron's case seems to be that he does not possess the knack of properly judging pace, especially over the route. The explanation for his collapse at New Haven was that he and Turley, the Yale star, ran each other ragged in the first mile or two. Certainly it cannot be said Bonthron lacks strength.

It is recalled that the Tiger ace was inconspicuous as a college two-miler in his sophomore year, only to blossom forth as one of the great middle distance runners of all time this year, with a new American mark of 4:08.7 for the mile on the day he ran second to Jack Lovelock's record-smashing 4:07.6 at Princeton.

Although little or no criticism can be found with a miler who can travel that fast, Bonthron's racing judgment against Lovelock was not particularly of the best. Instead of sharing the pacing, at least, with the British star, Bonthron took headlong charge and as a consequence was unable to match Lovelock's "kick" in the stretch.

To prove his reservoir of stamina was still abundant, however, Bonthron came back the same afternoon to run a smashing half-mile in 1:52.

Big Three
One of the outstanding matters of sporting rivalry unsettled this year concerns which is the greater miler: Bonthron of Princeton or Glenn Cunningham of Kansas.

Gene Venzke, the Pennsylvania sophomore and still the world indoor mile record-holder, may have been reckoned with again this coming winter but he is not quite up to the Bonthron-Cunningham pace, on the basis of 1932 performances.

Canzoneri Signs to Meet Italian Champ

Tips on CONTRACT

By TOM O'SHEA

Penetration of the ace and king of trumps and two other aces and king would seem to warrant a double of a vulnerable game contract. But a hand of great distributional strength can offset a defending position.

Chase Safety Pin in Baby's Stomach

Chicago.—One of the most sensational surgical cases in Chicago medical history has ended the life of two-week-old Marilyn Zeigmann.

Several days ago as Mrs. Benjamin Zeigmann was bathing the child she noticed a small object in the baby's mouth and dropped it on open safety pin she was holding in her mouth. The pin fell into the child's mouth and was promptly swallowed.

Dr. Gustave G. Berpe, of Lakeview hospital, who was summoned, decided the baby was too young for an operation. He waited two days, and still the pin remained in the stomach.

Then Hector Herpe cut an incision into the abdomen. Taking the stomach in his hand, he deftly manipulated it until the pin was closed. With the principal danger removed, he replaced the stomach, closed the incision, and pronounced the baby out of danger.

Secret of Locked Drawer Is Revealed

Small Drawer in Safe Contained Complete Inventory of Books in Supreme Court Library Here On May 9, 1906.

The secret of the locked drawer has finally been revealed. For many years there has been difficulty experienced at times in opening the large safe which is located in the office of the Supreme Court Judge in the court house. At various times experts have been called in to open the safe when it refused to answer to the combination. Recently it was decided to have the matter permanently corrected and a safe expert was called in. He remedied the condition and now the big doors swing outward easily.

While the expert was present it was determined to also open a small safe which had been locked for many years. There was no key to this particular drawer and for many years it was often caused speculation as to what its mysterious contents might contain. When the safe expert was called into consultation it took him but a moment to ascertain what the safe contained and a new key was made. The little drawer was opened.

In the drawer was a single document. On opening the document it was found that it was a complete inventory of the books contained in the Supreme Court Library here on May 9, 1906. It was all carefully written and contained many pages of the inventory of the thousands of books in the library. Apparently this list has been contained in the mysterious drawer for 33 years since no one ever having with the office drawer for over a quarter of a century. Naturally the inventory is now out of date as books are constantly being added to the library.

Apparently the list was made out at the time Judge James A. Harts was supreme court judge. John Cahill was stenographer and George Teller was librarian.

What Concert Funds Will Be Used For

While a great deal of interest is already being shown in the coming Mendelssohn Club concert on December 3, tickets are selling splendidly. There are many who are asking, "What will the funds be used for?"

The fund derived from the concert will be used for the High School. Tickets will be given free of charge, and the Mendelssohn Club is assuming the cost of the program. It will be used entirely as was the money contributed and made available to the Mendelssohn Club last year. That it will be spent for warm clothing and shoes for school children. Superintendent Van Ingen, who with others of the Mendelssohn Club have tickets for the City Hall on Monday afternoon, stated that with the first snowfall this fall the need of shoes for children going to school had become considerable and was on the increase as cold weather continues. The applications for clothing and shoes for these children are carefully checked up by the teachers, school nurse and transient officers so that there can be no doubt as to the children in very real need being helped.

In connection with the ticket sale for the concert, it should be stated that not only do the members of the Mendelssohn Club have tickets for sale but they may be purchased from members of the Federation of Women's Clubs, either affiliated club members or individual members.

Equalization, Highway Accounts Submitted

report of the committee was received and filed and later Supervisor Lamourse moved that there be assessed and levied against the county the sum of $67,479.40. Over under the rule.

Town and County Accounts
The report of the committee on town and county accounts in relation to the amounts expended by the towns for lunacy examinations, as reported at a prior meeting by the county treasurer, and also the amounts in the various towns for fighting forest fires was approved. Later a motion of Supervisors Dunbar, Cashdollar and Terwilliger that the amounts be levied and assessed against the various towns went over under the rule. In some instances the towns desired to pay the amounts out of moneys on hand. In towns where this was not desired it will be raised by assessment on property.

The same committee also reported that there was due to reimburse the county treasurer for money expended on the New Palts-Ireland Corners County Highway the sum of $505.20. This is one of the last amounts under the old county and state highway provision. Later Supervisors Dunbar, Cashdollar and Terwilliger moved that this amount be raised to reimburse the county treasurer. Over under the rule.

Social Welfare
A communication was received from the State Department of Social Welfare, at the suggestion of W. W. McElhone, that the men's building at the County Home at New Palts be either renovated and fireproofed or reconstructed. The communication called attention to the fact that if the work was done now the county need provide but 1-3 of the cost of such work and that the State Department would lend all aid in securing state and federal aid for the remaining 2-3 cost of such work.

This communication was received and referred to the committee on Public Welfare.

Report From Superintendent of Highways.

A report was received from County Superintendent of Highways Longhman calling attention of the board to the fact that in the construction of Bridge No. 92, quicksand had been encountered making necessary additional piling and extra concrete work stating that an extra allowance of $3,500 was required to take care of the situation. Received and filed.

A communication was also received from the New York State Society of Professional Engineers calling attention to the fact that should engineering work be required that the county should employ a licensed professional engineer. Received and filed.

A communication was also received from the Ulster County Taxpayers Association signed by Herbert Sears stating that he had been asked by the Ulster County Taxpayers Council to send a communication to the board suggesting that the county take up good control work in the town of Shandaken to prevent further damage to property. Received and filed.

The county superintendent of highways recommended that there be raised for the temporary and emergency bridge fund the sum of $35,000 due to the unusual work which was made necessary in the towns of Denning, Wawarsing and Shandaken by recent floods. Later on resolution of Supervisors Stanbrough, Dunbar and Charlton it was moved that $23,600 be raised on the county for the emergency bridge fund. This will take care of the two requests in regard to bridges as made by Mr. Longhman. Over under the rule.

Resolutions Offered.

A resolution was offered by Supervisors Cashdollar, E. Rowe and Markle that there be raised on the various towns amounts for town highways and bridges as submitted by the report of the committee on town expenses at a prior meeting and as approved by the various town boards. These sums will be used for town general construction, bridges, machinery and other town work on highways. The money when raised to be paid over to the town supervisor for such purposes. The amounts named in the resolution were the amounts submitted at a prior meeting and referred to the committee on town accounts. Over under the rule.

A resolution was offered by Supervisors Stanbrough, Dunbar and Charlton that there be raised $30,000 for snow removal. Over under the rule.

Supervisor Clarke of Rosendale offered a resolution that there be raised on the town $750 for Public Welfare work. Over under the rule. That there be raised on Rosendale the sum of $500 to pay certificates of indebtedness issued for highway purposes.

Supervisor Elsworth offered a resolution that the rates of equalized valuations as submitted by the committee on equalization be approved. Over under the rule.

A resolution was offered by Supervisors Stanbrough, Dunbar and Charlton that the county treasurer be authorized to transfer from the general fund the sum of $22,000, when and if received from the state relief, to the county road fund to be used for county road purposes. Over under the rule.
